

XiteBio Hires Sales Agronomist for Saskatchewan

Kylee Harris, XiteBio's new Sales Agronomist – Saskatchewan

WINNIPEG, Canada (Oct. 16, 2023): XiteBio is pleased to announce the joining of Kylee Harris as Sales Agronomist – Saskatchewan to their sales team effective as of Oct. 16, 2023. Kylee will be based out of Saskatoon, SK.

Kylee brings experience working in small plot research and crop scouting and has travelled Saskatchewan extensively. Kylee worked with BASF in their canola breeding program where she managed the organization of yield trials. She worked with AgCall performing field scouting and handling claims settlements on pesticide damages. She also worked with Nutrien and Patterson Grain where she gained experience with various crops like peas, wheat, barley, and lentils. Kylee did weed ecology projects in Agriculture & Agri-Food Canada as well. She has a bachelor of science in agriculture from the University of Saskatchewan.

“I am excited to be working for a company for whom sustainability is a major part of their mission,” says Kylee. “I chose to work in the growing field of inoculants and ag-biologicals because I see it as a part of the solution. Biotech innovations allow our growers to continue to push higher yields while at the same time preserving the land for future generations.” “Kylee has an enthusiasm for her work as well as knowledge of the most recent standards and practices in the industry,” says Dr. Manas Banerjee, CEO at XiteBio. “Her knowledge of canola and pulses will allow her to articulate the benefits of our premium liquid inoculants and ag-biologicals to growers in Saskatchewan looking for sustainable biotech solutions.”

As Sales Agronomist, Kylee will be working to strengthen the presence of XiteBio in Saskatchewan. Her knowledge of local crops and agronomic practices will help her to spread awareness about our portfolio of proven inoculants & ag-biologicals. Please join us in wishing Kylee every success in her new role at XiteBio. Please contact Kylee at 306-981-2847 or kylee.harris@xitebio.ca for your crop inoculant and ag-biological needs.
